About Us

According to a recent survey, the Bay Area is the fourth largest Jewish market in the United States.

Continuously published since 1895, J. chronicles the diverse, dispersed and innovative Jewish community of the Bay Area.

J. is the only media entity in the Bay Area presenting news through a Jewish lens, serving as a public forum for community members, and dedicated to connecting and inspiring the diverse population of Bay Area Jews. J. gives readers local Jewish news not reported elsewhere, covering innovations, leaders and trends.

J. is engaged with the full range of what it means to be Jewish today — from politics, religion, and the arts — to home, family, food, education, community and more.

J's Distribution and Reach:

35,000 regular print readers per issue

17,000+ email subscribers

200,000+ Web page views monthly

20,000+ followers on Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram

Our readers are affluent, educated and involved.

A Time to Grow: Oshman Family JCC

The Oshman Family JCC anchors the 8.5-acre Taube Koret Campus for Jewish Life, co-located with the Moldaw Family Residences in Palo Alto. Since opening in September 2009, the campus has created a hub for the region's Jewish community, providing high quality Jewish education, arts, fitness, youth engagement, and Israeli culture programs at its state-of-the-art facility.

As we learned in our recent Community Study, one-third of the Bay Area's Jewish population resides on the Peninsula. The JCC expansion addresses its demand for greater square footage, given its growth in membership (over 10,000 had to confront several enormous challenges simultaneously including finding a temporary site for this summer's programming, while at the same time navigating clean-up, insurance assessment, and planning to rebuild the camp.

Miraculously, within 6 weeks of the fire (and with help from JCRC and the Federation), Camp Newman found a temporary home at Cal Maritime in Vallejo. However, the costs of running a temporary rental site for the next few summers are significant. The Federation's Endowment Fund stepped in with a three-year emergency grant to help Camp Newman create a temporary home for the 1,000 kids heading to camp this summer. Camp Newman's resilience in the face of adversity reminds us that a community is both the structures that surround it and the people who comprise it.

It Takes a Village: San Francisco Campus for Jewish Living

One of the most ambitious real estate projects in the Bay Area

Jewish landscape is the transformation of the 127-year-old Jewish Home, renamed San Francisco Campus for Jewish Living, into a one-stop campus for older adults and their families. It offers a continuum of residential options, medical care, social services, wellness and fitness, retail, arts and culture, and recreational and social activities in one bustling hub. When complete, the $140 million construction project will double the number of people served each day on the Silver Avenue campus, empowering older adults to find everything they need in one "public square" that is both a vibrant physical place and a virtual online community. The campus' designed physical spaces, communal programs, and virtual site will ensure that no senior feels isolated or alone, and everyone is supported, seen, and heard.

As all these Jewish places demonstrate, making space for community is critical. As we support these organizations, the projects go beyond capital improvements and facilities. They are spaces where people feel at home—where they gather, connect, become part of something bigger—and that's where the real magic of community building happens.

Wendy Werba is a Senior Program Officer at the Jewish Community Federation and Endowment Fund, where she leads local impact strategy, organizational partnerships, community building and advocacy. Wendy manages seed funding and capital grantmaking, as well as a portfolio of agency relationships including Jewish overnight camps.

Making Space for Community
Designing Jewish experiences that connect people, generate a sense of belonging, and inspire a shared purpose.

Taking Belonging to New Heights: Camp Teenage

Jewish history in the Bay Area is rich and varied. From the early days of settlement to the present, the region has been a place of growth and change. The Jewish Community Federation and Endowment Fund is committed to supporting the growth and development of the Jewish community in the Bay Area. This includes supporting the expansion of existing organizations and the creation of new ones. The Oshman Family JCC is a prime example of this commitment. Since opening in September 2009, the campus has created a hub for the region's Jewish community, providing high quality Jewish education, arts, fitness, youth engagement, and Israeli culture programs at its state-of-the-art facility.
